To further improve urban functions, realize organic renewal of old town and promote the construction and development of main and sub centers of central urban area, planning and design of both sides of Tianjin Heiniucheng Road has been launched. Combined with location advantages and natural resources, the planning focuses on the functional positioning, regional characteristics, urban vitality, livable ecology and architecture style. By building prosperous urban block, beautiful waterfront space and characteristic landscape avenue, this area will become an important place not only integrating multiple functions such as office, business, commerce and leisure etc., but also connecting the main and sub urban center.
