In view of the special economic development pattern, development mode and existing site conditions of Dongjiang Harbor, we provide a flexible planning framework, establish long-term ecological protection and reconstruction mechanism and focus on the protection and restoration of local ecosystem, in order to meet its objective development requirements. Through reasonable planning, the ecological network will be reconstructed to achieve the goal of symbiosis of the harbor, the ocean and the architecture. After construction, Dongjiang Harbor, together with Binhai Leisure Area, Port Industrial Zone and Tianjin Free Trade Zone etc., will become the window to show the image of Tianjin as an international coastal city.
